VINEYARD ESTATE

The Del Rio Vineyard Estate overlooks the Rogue River between the Cascade and Siskiyou mountain ranges of Southern Oregon. A single 300 acre vineyard of breathtaking beauty; run by Rob and Jolee Wallace, a fourth generation farming family, with hearts and a passion for the land as big as the Del Rio skyline. Together with a team of skilled artisan winemakers, the Wallaces are working their dream producing world-class varietals in the wild and unspoiled Rogue Valley. The vineyard's unique terroir enables Del Rio to grow a diverse range of varietals, from Pinot Noir and Pinot Gris to Cabernet Sauvignon, Malbec, Cabernet Franc and more. From these estate grown grapes we produce our elegant, full-flavored Del Rio Vineyard Estate, Jolee and Rock Point wines. In addition to supplying our own brands, we are a key source of grapes to fine wine producers throughout the Northwest.

- Small, family owned, fourth generation farmers
- Artisan French winemaking team
- Estate grown and produced wines
- Oregon's southernmost AVA
- Warmer climate ideal for a diverse array of varietals
- Attractive cost/value ratio

The Rogue Valley AVA is the southernmost winegrowing region in Oregon. This region consists of three distinct valleys with progressively warmer microclimates, enabling the region to successfully grow both cool- and warm-climate grape varieties. Rogue Valley has the highest elevations (nearly 2,000 feet) of Oregon's winegrowing regions, but it is also the warmest and the driest, making it well-suited for warm-weather varieties.

PINOT GRIS

Estate grown, our Pinot Gris is a blend of three separate lots receiving three different treatments: stainless steel fermentation for maximum fruit payoff, malolactic fermentation for texture and richness, and barrel fermentation for depth and nuance. Full of rich fruit flavors of pineapple, peach and grapefruit, this complex wine finishes with a tasty touch of almond and vanilla.
